A successful virtual team is the one where the energies of team members are combined towards achieving a common goal and the energy loss due to team conflicts are minimal. Working remotely presents a unique set of challenges that require resilience, virtual collaboration, and professional acumen. While managers must recalibrate how they lead to some extent, team members must also redefine how they interact. Virtual teams present a unique set of challenges. In this workshop we will review some common challenges that face virtual teams and some suggested strategies for addressing those challenges.

(2.5 DODD hours pending for SSA, EI, IA, Adult Services and Superintendent)

Managers: Managing Teams in the Virtual Workspace

<https://www.signupgenius.com/go/10C0D4DAFA72CA3FEC52-managing1>

Virtual workers and virtual teams are an essential part of today's modern workforce. People are using technology to work anytime and anywhere. The virtual workplace offers many benefits, but can result in plenty of challenges too. While managers must recalibrate how they lead to some extent, team members must also redefine how they interact. The craft of leadership in the in-person workplace and virtual environment really aren't that different. Remember, the definition of leadership is "to influence". Virtual teams present a unique set of challenges. In this workshop we will review some common leadership challenges that face virtual teams and some suggested strategies for addressing those challenges.

(2.5 DODD hours pending for SSA, IA, EI, Adult Services, Business Mgr., CB Member and Superintendent)
